Instructions for using WCRP Open Science Conference social media templates

To publicize your session, poster cluster, side event or the WCRP Open Science Conference in general, we provide a number of social media templates. These can also be added to emails sent to publicize elements of the conference.

This document contains different versions and styles so that the range of content published is varied. We use Canva, a free design platform, where you can edit the templates for your own needs. Canva requires you to login, using your email address or your Facebook, Google, Apple or other accounts. It is a quick and easy process.

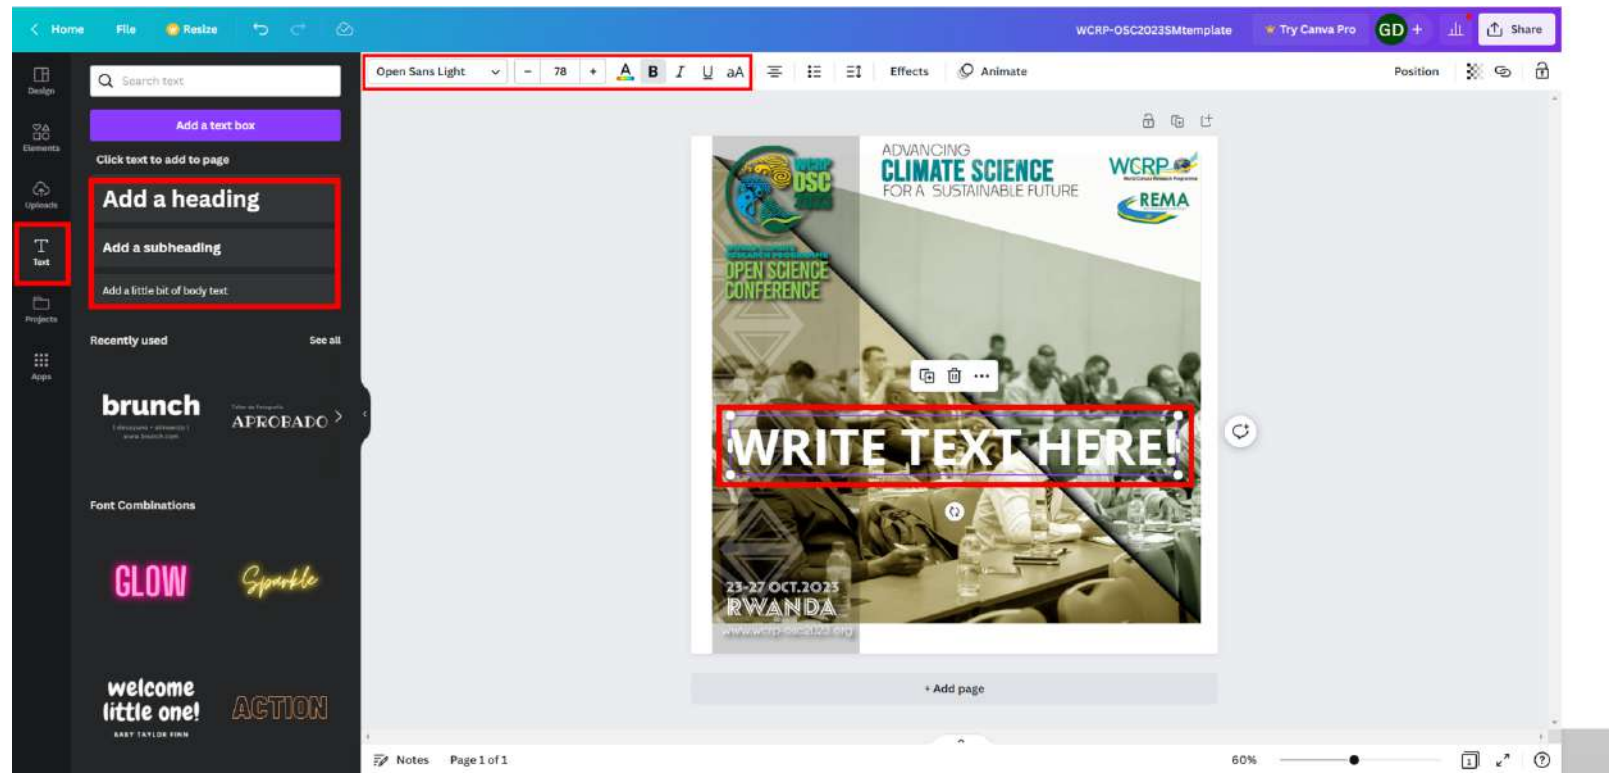

WARNING:

*To be able to edit the templates. You must be on the Canva home page and make a copy of the design as shown in the image. Then, you can click on the copy you have made and make your changes to the template.

-Double click on 'write text here' to be able to edit the text, delete the example text and write what you want. In the bar at the top you can change the formatting of the text, the font size, the colour of the text (click on the letter A) and select whether you want the text to be bold or italic.

-The bar on the left is the Canva editing panel, for this template you only need to modify the text tool. Canva uses a drag and drop format. If you want to add more text to the template just choose whether you want to 'add title', 'add subtitle' or add normal text.

In this image there is a template design that can be edited and an image file that can be downloaded. To use the template you must click either on the thumbnail image that is presented or where it says 'Link' next to the text 'Use Template'.

How to Download the image

To download the image click on the text 'download image'. (warning: just the image not the template).

How to edit the template in Canva

Canva is a very simple and intuitive editor.
